The Making Of Vernacular Singapore

In the midst of debates surrounding the status of Singlish, Professor Bao Zhiming (Department of English Language and Literature), in The Making of Vernacular Singapore English (Cambridge University Press, 2015), examines whether Singlish is a pidgin, a creole, or something else. Through a contact linguistics approach, the study of the interaction between two or more languages, he analyses the impact of Chinese and Malay which subsequently paved the way for the development of the Singlish we ...
